Proposed Research May Develop New Wheat Products

"Domestic utilization of wheat in human nutrition and industry can be encouraged by the recently enacted Research and Promotion Act," Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin declared recently.

"The prospect is quite promising that research can develop new products and greater utilization of wheat," Secretary Hardin stated. "Many other farm commodities are seeing the fruits of an effective research and promotion program, and this self-help effort by the wheat industry is in that same spirit."

The Congressional measure (HR 13543) could provide more than $4 million for research on new uses for wheat and market development.

It authorizes the Secretary to enter into agreements with farm organizations representing wheat producer interests, such as the newly-formed National Wheat Institute, to carry out research and promotion. The institute is a non-profit organization representing a cooperative effort among wheat producer groups to increase domestic wheat usage. The institute incorporates the requirements outlined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for eligibility to receive contracts under the program.

Financing of the program will come from proceeds of the 1968 Wheat Export Certificate Pool not claimed by eligible farmers. The $4.2 million pool is the result of legislation passed several years ago that provides for excess collections of export certificates to be distributed pro rata among wheat producers.

Wheat exporters are required to buy export certificates for any lot of wheat exported whenever the U. S. price is less than the world price. Whenever the U. S. price exceeds the world price, an export subsidy is paid to the exporter to make the wheat competitive in world markets. The world market price for the 1968 crop of wheat was at times higher than the U. S. price and an export certificate pool of slightly over $4.2 million was accumulated.

County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices will notify eligible wheat producers of their pro rata share of the pool. Producers may elect to receive their share or leave it to finance the Research and Promotion Program. They will have until Dec. 24, 1970, to notify their county ASCS office whether they elect to receive the payment.

What's The Secret?

How do you grow a 77 pound pumpkin in Appomattox? Ask W. T. Ranson of Pamplin. This "monster pumpkin" earned a white ribbon at the Five-County Fair and is now waiting for Halloween to grin at all the passersby at the home of his daughter, Jerry and Bobby Mitchell, Appomattox. One answer to that first question -- that's powerful branch water that feeds the Ranson pond, and the pumpkin grew beside the pond. Any more questions?

Washington. The only way to get things done there for your district is to have proven ability, friends and seniority. Watt Abitt has all three. They weren't acquired from a book. Or overnight. It's taken your Congressman time to become so valuable.

His seniority is on committees that directly benefit Virginia. And he's supported programs, such as peanut and tobacco programs, that directly aid the overall economy.

The Fourth District now has a very strong voice in Washington. November 3rd you have a chance to keep it there.
